CRHT Interpretive Panels for Morrow County

Proposals due 5:00 PM (PST), June 12, 2023

Request for Proposals

Morrow County is seeking proposals from qualified professional design and manufacturing firms to update the interpretive panels located along the Columbia River Heritage Trail in Morrow County, Oregon.

The panels have a variety of information including history and heritage of Morrow County along and near the Columbia River. There are currently eight interpretive panels in need of restoration. Out of those, three will be needing a new metal structure/frame created. The panel measurements are 24 inches x 48 inches.

The project includes design of the panels, utilizing existing subject material as well as integrating new content for the interpretive panels. Consultant will be expected to work with staff and citizens, providing draft and final design.

The project also includes the construction of 11 panels and 11 replacement panels (total 22) to include high pressure laminate or other weather resistant, outdoor materials. Project does not include installation of the panels.

For more information about the project, please contact Stephanie Case, Planner in the Morrow County Planning Department scase@co.morrow.or.us or (541) 922-4624.
