

Learn about Catholic Charities' immigration services and how you can help your clients and others.

Immigrant survivors of abuse face special challenges. There are laws in place to prevent someone's immigration status from being used as a means of abuse and exploitation. As a service provider, you play an important role in identifying and referring immigrants who may be eligible for immigration benefits.

Join Catholic Charities to learn more about:

- Domestic violence issues specific to immigrant populations
- Violence Against Women Act (VAWA), U Visas for crime victims, T visas for trafficking survivors
- General information about other types of immigration relief
